Wouldn't it increase the value of the public securities, and so augment the national resources, through the prosperity of business, as soon to make heavy inroads upon the debt of the Government without imposing undue burdens upon the people? are on record, and humanity shudders at the tale. Whether men may ever be refined enough to feel their guilt when they torment animals remains to be seen, and your society will no doubt do its share in educating them in that direction. But to say that turtles do not suffer when dragged are indeed very sensitive to some injuries. That of turning them upside down among others is sufficient, for instance, to prevent their eggs from hatching. Their suffering may be inferred by the violent and convulsive movements to which the perforation of their five of their five results of the convention of their five results o vulsive movements to which the perfora-tion of their fins gives rise. And yet to this proceeding dealers in turtles gen-erally resort to tie them more closely and pack a larger number in a smaller space. Of course, when ited in this manner, they may suffer less by being turned upon their backs, because the fins are thus relieved from the pressure of their whole weight; but the best evidence I can afford that they suffer in that position is that they die if it is much protracted; and yet tur-tles are among the animals which resist pauper bodies buried at one graut alone rose from 50—at which it stood last year—to 329 in the first nine days of this month. On the 10th there were 2,723 native male and female patients in the different hospitals of Calcutta, of whom 887 were indoor, against 1,880 on the same date last year, of whom only 306 were indoor. Now, if this is the case in Calcutta, which has no famine or scarcity of its own, what must be the state of things in Orissa? One of the journals has addressed a series of questions to the senior missionary of Cuttack, which does not suffer more than Pooree, and very much less than Balasore. To a question as to the action of the Government, he replies: "The early utterances of the Board of Revenue furnished melancholy evidence that the depth and extent of the calamity were wholly unappreciated." "Any representations as to the calamity being comparatively slight or confined within narrow limits are wholly contrary to fact." "We were surprised as weeks and months passed and no movement was originated by the proper authorities." To the question whether relief penetrates into the interior from the station, he says it does not "to the extent that is desirable," although all the officials and non-officials work with praiseworthy energy. The most important work the new Committee have to do is to organize a system of relief. The matives hitherto have done as much evil as good by feeding all who apply indiscriminately, so that the many professional beggars and rascals of the great city and the vicinity too often exclude the deserving, and by giving the food at different times, so that bands of scoundrels have been in the habit of wandering from relief-station to relief-station in the same day. cold night air, which kills so many, in the public sheds, constructed to accommodate 10,000, and in the pauper camp outside the city except those who have tickets. As many poor as can be induced to go will be sent back to their homes to be relieved there, and the influx will be arrested by establishing relief outposts at such places as Oobabaria, the ferry on the Hooghly, by which hundreds flock from Midnapore and Orissa. A relief agent was sent there, and this is his tale: On landing from the boat at sunrise, the first object he saw was "an elderly woman in a ghastly state of emaciation, lying hopelessly doubled up on the wet ground at the roadside, where she had apparently passed the night. This was in the midst of a crowded bazzar." Further on lay another woman and child in the same state. Near them lay the ghost-like figure of a man worn to lay the ghost-like figure of a man worn to the bone, naked and stiff, lying in a pud-dle. About to pass it by as a corpse, the agent discovered one spark of life still left, found that there was no doctor nearer than at Howrah, several miles away, and had all these cases removed into a hut. The native Police Inspector and his men looked on with stolid indifference. While sago was being prepared for the poor watches who were the poor watches who were the poor watches.

"to the extent that is desirable," although all the officials and non-officials work with praiseworthy energy. Where there are relief centers the entirely destitute are cared for, but the large and important class who are not paupers, yet cannot buy rice at three pounds, four pounds, and five pounds a shilling, are neglected. The price of Government rice should be so low as to meet their case, but this authority tells us it ought to be sold at six pounds instead of five pounds a shilling, and its dearness was a cause of dispute between the official and non-official members of the committee. This dearness he terms "the principal defect in the Government relief." The mortality from famine and cholera he describes as of "frightful magnitude," as "much greater than has generally been supposed." And there are still "four long dark months" before the province. Government is making over the many orphans to the missionaries' care. This is said of Cuttack, but I am told by a high official, who has just returned from Balasore, where he assisted the Relief Committee, that language would fail to describe the state of things there a few weeks ago.

A correspondent of a Sacramento paper tells the following pathetic story:

"There is a young man sentenced to jail for a year, who still retains the treasures of a pretty wife and child. They come to see him every day, and the warden turns the great creaking lock, and the three sit on a bench for awhile and forget their misfortunes. Yesterday being Sunday they brought him his dinner—all the delicate little things that a poor woman could think of and carry—and the repast lasted a great while. The child is extremely beautiful, and while it was playing about the grated doors, I could see the furtive tears drive one another quickly down the young mother's rosy cheek, though she was pretending to be cheerful all the time."

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.

The total vote of this city yesterday foots up over 29,000, which exceeds by over 3,000 any previous vote. Eggleston's majority in the First District is 900, and Hayes's, in the Second District, is 2,600. The vote for or against the purchase of the gas-works by the city is overwhelmingly in favor of the purchase. The Union majority in the State is about 50,000.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1866.

We had strong hopes of Conservative victories in Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania on Tuesday, but, as we said advance, our expectations lagged behind our hopes. We did not expect success, and the strong probabilities are that t has not been achieved. We consider it nearly certain that the Radicals have ber of their Representatives in Congress. Hence it is quite evident that Conservatism and the South, unless some great and tremendous political convulsion shall take place (and for that we cannot pray), will have as little to look for from the next Congress as it has from the present one. The Radicals, in the next as in the present, will almost certainly have two-thirds majority and thus possess the numerical power, as they now do, to enact whatever laws they please in defiance of e President's vetoes. And what amount of woe may not this reckless, unscrupulous, remorseless, and infuriated party, waxing all the while in hate and wrath and vengeance, and holding full and irresponsible power in their horrid hands, achieve during the approaching Congressional session and the two that are to folwit! Eyes and hearts may well ache at the appalling prospect! Bad has come,

The radicals are not a wise people. They have not even intelligent and enlightened selfishness. They are influenced far more by wild and headlong passion than by a judicious regard for the true interests of their party. Were it otherwise, we should be entirely confident, that, having secured ample strength carry all their measures over the President's head during the whole remnant of his administration, they will not venture upon the perilous experiment of impeachment. We must confess, however, that we are entirely indifferent whether they venhave made." We have no idea, that, with all their rage and madness, they will have the wild and desperate daring to undertake the impeachment of President Johnson for anything he has yet done in office, for he has kept himself so clearly and distinctly within the limits of his constitucannot but see that tens and hundreds of misled as they have thus far been, would cry out against the terrible outrage. Still they cannot digest their meals or rest in their peached, and it is our belief that their policy will be to enact, by their two-thirds majority, the most ultra, the most jacobinical laws that they can possibly devise, laws unequalled in their jacobinism even by the worst and most scandalous that the shoulders of the President the business of executing them, deceming that there will be a fair and full opening for his impeachment if he shall fail to do the work. What the President will do if such extraordinary circumstances shall surround him, we know not, and probably of it to God, to mankind, and to himself. He desires peace and prays for it, but hell will at all times be found wherever the re-eyes of needles or potatoes, unless their pass. barley, they cannot but know that the whole tendency of what majority of the Northern population, the difference in numbers would not be appreiable in such a civil war as that by which the North is now threatened. Though the Northern enemies of the radicals might not-be quite equal numerically to the radicals, there would be quite enough of them to do all the harm, work all the truction, they would desire. The smoke of Northern towns and cities, fired by both parties, would ascend to heaven like the black and sulphurous smoke of the ancient "Cities of the Plain." Yet no thoughts or reflections of this kind are sufficient to make the Radicals, now that they are drunk with wrath, pause even for a moment in their desolating career. They seem determined to kindle the conflagration, though they and theirs perish in it.

If we may judge from the despatches of yesterday, the radicals preiled in the elections of Tuesday; and, if we may judge from this result, they will prevail likewise in the elections of November. We may reasonably conclude that the radical majority in the next House of Representatives will not be less than two-thirds of the body. So much is probable, if not certain. It is indeed but When Congress shall meet in December, therefore, the radicals will have gained the power to do what they please for the next two years. What they please we know; but whether or not they will take the responsibility of working their pleasure in all respects, remains to be seen. We can afford to wait.

Meanwhile, we may be sure of one thing. The radical majority in Congress will as sume and exercise the right of dictating terms of admission to the Southern States Of this at least there can be no doubt. In view of such dictation, what is the duty of the Southern States? Is it their duty to accept terms, thereby acknowledging the right of Congress to dictate them, and acquiescing in their own degradation as members of the Union? In other words, s it their duty to dishonor themselves? We need not answer this question. It an swers itself; and, in our opinion, the answer outweighs all imagined or imaginable considerations of expediency. untary submission to wrong is in the end the most fatal inexpediency. Dishonor can never be expedient. With respect to the amendment abolishing slavery, the honor of the South was saved by the President's disclaimer of all authority to exact the ratification as a condition of admission. He acknowledged that the rights of the Southern States in the Union were perfect without conditions or guarantees. He dictated no terms. He advised and pressed the rat- spoon-fashion.

Mr. Speed did not think proper to make a correction to the press of the his language had been perverted, write to President Johnson, disclaiming the language imputed to him.

Malt is made a grave objection to President Johnson that he is popular at the South. But shouldn't a public man, who is laboring devotedly for the common good of the whole country, be popular throughout the whole country? Is it a merit in a high officer of the Government to be odious to either of the great sections of the American Union?

President Johnson is popular in the South. He is most deservedly so, for he is directing his great energies to the pro motion of the best good of the Southern people. He has also a large popularity n the North, and he should he larger one, for he is doing all that mortal man in his position can do to secure the present and future prosperity and happi ness and strength of the Northern people He does not give up to section what benefit of the whole nation alike.

The Washington National Repubican-which is supposed to reflect the personal views of the President-denies hat the issue between that functionar, and Congress has been fairly presented in "Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Indiana, and other States", and makes some suggestive comments, which we reproduce in this morning's Journal.

Gen. Banks talks about the radicals having "enemies in their rear." The chivalric Banks had plenty of enemies in his rear, when he turned tail, and, at the head of his forces, ran for life from the far inferior forces of Dick Taylor. He should be known in history as the Banks of Red River.

THE TORNADO AT FRANK. LIN. INDIANA.

One Boy Killed-Two Ladies Mortally Injured-One Lady's Arm Broken-Twenty-six Buildings Demolished-Some Strange Freaks.

A gentleman just from Franklin, a small place on the Jeffersonville and Indianapolis Railroad, furnishes us the following facts concerning the terrible hurricane that swept over that place last evening. The width of the hurricane's track was not over one thousand feet. It lasted but a demand, while others were transported: few moments, but destroyed in those few moments twenty-six buildings, including the depot, a very substantial brick build. ing, that was actually demolished from roof to foundation

DAMNABLE CRIME.

Rape Upon a Child Only Four Years Old.

One of the most revolting crimes the we have chronicled, even in this era of enormities, came to the knowledge of the police authorities yesterday. Information was lodged at the Chief's office that one James Biggins, an Irishman about thirty years of age, had committed a rape ipon his own sister-in-law, Katy Faree, a ittle girl only four years old. Officers Arthur Yates and John Pendergrass proeded to the house of Biggins, in Limer ick, and upon investigation found the charge to be true in its most diabolical sense. The child was in a critical, almost a hopeless, condition. She was brought in her mother's arms to the Police Office, where she was examined by several physicians. Her body had been horribly mutilated. The inhuman wretch, it seems went home drunk Tuesday night, and, on entering the house, seized the little girl, and, with worse than brutish force and lust violated her person, and then attempted the same hellish outrage upon an old lady in the house. Biggins was secured and taken to jail. He will have a preliminary trial before the City Court this morning. We hope he may not by any sort of means escape the severes penalty known to the law.

INEAMOUS, IF TRUE-A MAN ARRESTEI FOR INCEST .- Officers Glass and McKinney, of the city police, yesterday arrested Jesse Loyal, a man about forty years of age, residing at the corner of Twelfth and Market streets, at the instance of his daughter Jane, fifteen years old, who charges him with the hideous crime of ncest. Many purported facts relative to this affair have been stated to us, but we refrain from using them until they shall ave been developed in a court of justice. For the sake of all that is redeemable in human character we devoutly hope that such a charge—the blackest in the calen dar of iniquity-may not be proven agains any one claiming a habitation among Christian people. Judge Craig will probably investigate the case this morning.

THEATER. - Our play-goers are evincing the right spirit towards the young and accomplished Webb Sisters. They were favored with another vast audience last night. The entertainment was superb, the est of the week. In the Pearl of Savoy, Miss Emma, as Aline, challenged the admiration of every one, while the imperonation of Davy O'Leary by little Ada left nothing to be desired. It is impossi ble for the veriest old snarler (if we unfortunately have such a habitue of the artistes. They are loveable for their modesty and beauty of person, and praiseworthy for their judicious characteriza ions. The pleasing comedy of the Foster Sisters and the rollicking after-play of the Young Actress are on the bills for this evening.

NEGRO STABBED. -Two negro deck-hands on the mail boat Major Anderson had an altercation while the boat was lying at the wharf vesterday. Joseph Anderson stabbed his adversary in the left breast, just below the shoulder, with a carving-knife. The blade penetrated into the vitals, it is thought, and there is little hope for the wounded man. Dr. T. S. Bell was sent for, and rendered the necessary surgical attention. Anderson was arrested and lodged in jail by Officers Booker and Gallagher. The name of the injured negre was not ascertained.

NASHVILLE AND NORTHWESTERN RAIL DAD .- The continuation of the Nashville and Northwestern Railroad is to be com pleted from Hickman, Kentucky, to Mc Kenzie, Tennessee, by the first of Novem ber, forming a junction with the Memphis and Ohio Railroad at the latter place, and making direct communication between Hickman and Memphis. When the er tire road is completed, only thirty-eight of three hundred and fifty-eight votes in favor of Mr. Kerr. The fourteenth annual festival of the North American Saengerbund, and association, composed of the leading musical societies of the United States, was held in this city on the 23d of July, continuing five days. It was attended by several hundred of the ablest professional and amateur musicians of the country, besides a large number of persons attracted hither a large number of persons attracted hithe by the novelty and splendor of the enter-tainments. The connecrts were a series of grand successes. The witching power of music, the entrancing spell of harmony, were never so thoroughly and completely demonstrated. There yet lingers about our city the hallowing influences of that eventful week of melody. The conduct of our city upon this occa-sion is a matter of congratulation. It was worthy of the noble and generous character of her people, and the wisdom character of her people, and the wisdom and enlarged liberality that controls her municipal affairs. At a heavy expense an immense hall was erected. Public ovations were given the strangers. The Right Hon J. S. Watley, Chairman, said that he anticipated at a very early moment a great reduction in the cable tariff, probably to one-half the present rates. In fifty-live days, ending September 21st, the cable earned $46,046, which would make an average, including Sunday and stoppages of land lines, of £837 per day, and if they excluded the exceptional days when the cable could not work at all, the average would be £896 a day.

These figures are very far from conforming with the recent statement in the Times, that the Cable was earning at the rate of $900,000 a year.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10. Forney's Press publishes a speech made Forney's Press publishes a speech made by General Geary at Harrisburg to the boys in blue in honor of the radical vic-tory in the State, in which he says: It establishes these facts, that the Govern-ment of the United States is vested in the American people and in their repre-sentatives in Congress assembled, and not in a corrupt Executive; that cruel and re-vengeful traitors defeated in battle shall not be restored to citizenship to ruin the country they attempted to destroy. When our forefathers declared men capable of self-government; they rejected the heresy elf-government; they rejected the heresy of human slavery and pledged equal political rights to all their successors; that hereafter the citizens represented in the state and National Legislatures must be thed with the rights of citizenship; that all the agencies of the Government, civil and military, must be perseveringly and sternly exercised to protect, vindicate, and if needs be, avenge our oppressed brothers in the South against the savage persecutions of robels who are still so resecutions of rebels who are still so pertinent and defiant that even Andrew impertinent and defiant that even Andrew Johnson fears to pardon them, and having fortified these great truths against all future dangers, it is for us of Pennsylvania to maintain the forward position we have so proudly and gloriously won. The attempt to restore the traitors of the South and to revive the copperheads of the North has proved to be a galvanism that is so brief that the failure has consigned both to a deeper death and to a darker grave than that they occupied before.

GREENSBURG Ky Oct 9, 1866. We reached here on the 7th, and found We reached here on the 7th, and found large numbers of friends of ours who are ever ready and willing to give a true reception to what is due in this part of old Kentucky. The Fair here opened in very auspicious circumstances, and quite a crowd is enjoying it. The officers are composed of just such gentlemen as any land or section may be proud of. The following is the list of names comprising the officers:

the officers:

This is the first Fair since the war and the people are highly proud that they can meet together again upon their "native meet together again upon their "native heath" without interruption from any source either military or political. The Fair was very finely attended to-day for the commencement, and the very best hopes are entertained of a complete success. The opening day embraced, as is customary in our fairs, the domestic goods, dairy products, and fruits and vegetables, of which there was a very fine display in each department. We never saw a better exhibit of dairy products and vegetables than was afforded to-day, nor generally do we see better represented than they were the varieties of fruits, quilts, patchwork, etc. The subjoined will give you an idea of the products as seen on the occasion from a highly worthy citizen of this place: Mrs. Wm. The Mystery of Sleep Twelve hundred millions of dream; nake a network of wild fancies nightly about their planet. To go, if it were positible, through this world of sleep, would be a stranger process than that of exploring the whole waking world, for in sleep very living being is a poet, from the baby part clings in its dreams to the breast of oddesses, to the centenarian who, with taff and spectacles, hobbles about paraise at the heels of scraphs. Sleeping and waking are the two phenomenas of our xistence. What is done and thought in the every day working world, where the ordinary business of life is carried on, no nother. There are reticences in the con-essions of the most frank—things which annot, and that, never will be, spoken— houghts which transcend the limits of lan-tinge—hopes which the power of no fairy tators of ourselves, set free our actions from the control of our own will, and transforms us into so many passive spokes in the great wheel of destiny.
